SPOTSYLVANIA SHERIFF'S OFFICE TO APPEAR IN DOCUMENTARY SERIES
ON PATROL: LIVE STARTING FRIDAY, DECEMBER 02, 2022

The Spotsylvania Sheriff's Office will be appearing in the television documentary series On Patrol: Live starting Friday, December 02, 2022. On Patrol: Live airs Friday and Saturday Nights from 9PM to 12AM ET/PT on REELZ.

The series is hosted and executive produced by Dan Abrams, with retired Tulsa Police Department Sergeant Sean "Sticks" Larkin and Deputy Sheriff Curtis Wilson. Together, they provide minute-by-minute live analysis as the show documents for viewers in real time the everyday work of police officers on patrol from diverse departments across America.

"We are both honored and humbled to be able to show America how important humanizing the badge is by building stronger relationships between law enforcement and the communities we serve." -Sheriff Roger L. Harris

On Patrol: Live is produced by Half Moon Pictures for REELZ. Executive Producers are Dan Cesareo, John Zito, Lucilla D'Agostino, Paul Gordon, Joe Venafro, and Dan Abrams.

The Spotsylvania County Sheriff's Office has approximately 275 sworn law enforcement officers and numerous support, non-sworn positions. The agency responds to an average of 117,000 calls for service per year. The Sheriff's Office is located halfway between Washington D.C. and Richmond, Virginia along Interstate 95 and is one of the largest growing law enforcement agencies in Virginia. The 414 square-mile county is split between a steady growing urban fixture and a rural country setting. Lake Anna, one of the largest freshwater inland reservoirs is shared with adjoining counties and proves to be a popular tourist attraction.
